The Simons Center for System Biology at the Institute for Advanced Study, Princeton, invites applications for post-doctoral level positions. Postdoctoral Members are typically appointed for three years. A small number of senior scientists can be accommodated on sabbatical leave. Research pursued at the Center is focused on developing general theoretical principles that are unique to living matter. Current faculty are Stanislas Leibler and Misha Tsodyks.

Applications and requests for further information can be submitted to csb@ias.edu. The information about the Center can be found at https://www.sns.ias.edu/csb.
